LEATHERCRAFT

BRITISH TRADE SUPPLIER

We challenge the status quo and are committed to delivering great quality products, with good service at competitive prices.

Established in 1974 by a Master Saddler, we are privileged to have not only expertise but also a rich history of working with leather. We are family owned and directed, and still manufacture on site in Britain. To remain viable and competitive, however, we also utilise trusted manufacturers across the world with a strong focus on durable and quality products that are manufactured in an ethical manner. We have always believed that to remain viable we must continually evolve to meet ever changing market demands, this ethos alone has made us a strong and innovative company.

On our business journey we have acquired two great brands (Charles Smith and Ibex) and are building up the range offering as appropriate under each. The collection illustrated in this catalogue is available for swift dispatch, from stock. We will continue to bring new or improved products to market and to this end we are always glad to hear feedback and suggestions.

In 1957 Ibex was founded in Spratton, Northamptonshire, the heart of England's leather tanning and shoe industry. The choice of this location was no accident. Initially, Ibex manufactured components for the local shoe industry. Building then on an inherent knowledge of leather, flourishing design skills and local talent, Ibex went on to develop its own range of leather belts. At the beginning of the fashion boom in the 60s, Ibex had become a recognised belt brand with an international appeal. As the brand flourished, the company rapidly expanded and was granted the Queen's Award in 1972. By the late 80s, Ibex consolidated its operations into one large production unit in Brixworth, Northamptonshire. The company was still operating from this facility when Oxford Leathercraft acquired them in 2014. The Ibex brand is integral to our portfolio and we are committed to upholding its core values: resilience, agility and quality.

Charles Smith was established in Nottingham, in 1836 - during the industrial revolution. During this time, leather was used extensively due to its enduring properties and Charles Smith was formed to meet the increasing demand for leather goods. As the use of leather changed over the century, Charles Smith started manufacturing fine leather goods, such as wallets, bags and belts. With no high street presence, Charles Smith remained largely unknown, however, manufactured products for well-known brands. Charles Smith continued trading until the early 2000s when China emerged as an industrial powerhouse and caused ripples in the British manufacturing industry. In 2006, Oxford Leathercraft acquired Charles Smith, including nearly 170 years worth of knowledge, skills and passion. Oxford Leathercraft worked hard to revitalise the brand and product collections and today, the brand features more prominently on the High Street than ever before.

Retention of title:

All goods supplied remain the property of the vendor until paid for in full.

Copyright & trademarks:

We reserve copyright completely in respect of our publications and our products. No representation of them may be reproduced in any form without our prior permission. Our trademarks are registered and protected; legal action will be taken in event of these being misused or imitated.

Full terms of business and condition of sale are available on application.

FAQs

Shown below are answers to a few frequently asked questions.

If you have any query that we haven't covered here, just give us a call; We are always happy to answer any questions that you may have.

Q: Are all the belts real or genuine leather?

A: Yes and that applies to the canvas belts with leather tabs too. Variances in the pricing of the belts will relate to differences in leather qualities, or the simplicity/complexity of the product.

Q: How are the belts sized?

A: Charles Smith branded belts are sized in waist sizes and Ibex branded belts are sized in generic sizes (see chart). Some Ibex styles can be specially produced in waist sizes if required and we are also able to supply smaller sizes if necessary. The sizing for both is taken from the buckle end to the middle hole position of the belt. Please be aware that it is necessary to select the next size up from the trouser waist band measurement. i.e a 32" waist trouser requires a 34" belt.

Q: Are all the belts available unbranded?

A: Some belts from the range are available unbranded, but as we offer a stock backed service it isn't possible to have all styles unbranded, unless you reach a minimum order quantity appropriate to the style.

Q: What are the lead times?

A: For the stock backed collection shown we aim to deliver your order within 3-5 days. We cannot guarantee a next day delivery service as if some style are not made then we will do so for your order. For purpose made belts you will be advised of lead times when we quote.

Q: Do you have a minimum order?

A: We do not have a minimum order value, but orders under £25 are surcharged in addition to the carriage cost if your order is under carriage paid value. To supply our products we would expect you to hold a stock of them, which is periodically replenished.

Q: Can I open a credit account?

A: For the first order we would usually require payment upfront. Thereafter, subject to credit checks, completion of a credit application form and sufficient level of spend we will happily grant a credit account.

Q: What happens if there is a faulty article delivered, or there is a problem after use?

A: In the rare event of a fault we would require a photo of the article or it to be returned and we will credit your account or refund. Our products are guaranteed for 12 months from date of purchase.

Q: Are there any discounts for early payment or large quantities?

A: We do not offer settlement discounts. If you order over 50 pieces of any particular product you would qualify for a discount; please discuss with our sales team.
